"Everyone at EA SPORTS is energised by FIFA and proud of the fact that we represent the genre of football in such a way that people everywhere love to play," said David Rutter, FIFA lead producer. "Our new game engine is built on years of development and is not only the best looking and most realistic game in the history of FIFA, but it is the fastest and most flexible engine in the series. The new game engine means players can be in the flow of a real match without being tied to a desk." The improved ball physics and enhanced match flow of the new engine were recognised by football media, clubs and players around the world with an 82% approval rating from the FIFA community. The experience of watching and playing FIFA has never been more emotive as players feel more natural in the flow of a real-life football match. New and improved animations give players a greater sense of the flow and movement of the game, with the original artificial intelligence (AI) engine providing a better response to players' actions. As well as a more realistic look and feel to the game, Fifa 22 2022 Crack introduces 'Max Speed Volley' where players can feel the power of a free-kick contact with the goalkeeper. 'Time Shift' offers a new perspective on strategy and strategy games, delivering a unique addition to the franchise. In 'Time Shift' players can step back in time to any point in the match. They can experience a match from a player's point of view to take direct control of a man and effect the outcome of a match. This is the only FIFA game where the player can see their teammates. Another new game feature for the first time in the series is Control Points. 'Control Points' are a unique game mechanic where players can earn points that influence a team's player ratings. The more points a player earns, the better his stats will be in FIFA 22, which will have a major impact on the strategic development of your team. "FIFA's many features and a new game engine make the experience more than just about football," said Sam Paea, FIFA lead gameplay designer. "It's really about adding dynamic strategy that lets players compete more aggressively, and makes it easier to create strategies and tactics to compete for a win." What's new:

- New Gameplay improvements:
 - Blocking and passing accuracy: Improved automatic blocking models will keep defenders away, and ensure that the best passer in the world improves your marksmanship.
 - Aggressive animations: will cause defenders to move with a more threatening attitude, which will make them easier to mark while avoiding contact with opponents. Stronger and agile players will also have even more highly-detailed animations to further emphasise their athleticism.

- Dynamic Player Interactions:
Including Dynamic Pro Zones:
A new experience in gameplay related to the addition of PRO ZONES will be introduced in FIFA 22. The concept of PRO ZONES works like an ultimate band-aid to plain old penalties, spot kicks, and corner-kicks. Play the ball inside the box, but only inside the indicated area can be classed as a PRO ZONE. Managers will now have to weigh whether to kick the ball or use an expert field player. As another way to promote goal kicks, improving the field player's chances to step in front of the goalkeeper.
- Improved strategic gameplay:
A new system has been added called 'babysitting tactic', which will allow players to dictate tactics in the midfield with adapted positioning.
The new 'Crossing and Defending' mechanic removes the necessity of positioning a defender to defend against a cross and will in turn open up the game allowing managers to simply focus on counter-attacking and position players in the final third with more freedom.
