Q: How to hide elements in UICollectionView layout I want to hide some elements in my UICollectionView layout. For example, I have two elements: one cell and one button. I want to hide these elements. For example, I can set the elements' hidden property to YES, but it does not work. Why not?

A: If you want to display a simple Button in your UICollectionViewCell In your UICollectionViewCell you can add a Button or any view that you want. In your Class that created your UICollectionViewCell add the following: (Optional) Add UILabel for Title or Description: class UICollectionViewCell: UICollectionViewCell { @IBOutlet weak var titleLabel: UILabel! @IB

IT.txt This is the evolution of the idea that I have been developing in the last few months. It's simply a PNG sequence, which can be used as an offline wallpaper (on different devices). The idea (see previous version here) is to use a bitmap (in this case, the comic "IT.txt" + the counter number) as a header (like the header of an album). The sequence consists of an animation of the album's pages, with a fixed time delay between each page. This delay is calculated automatically by the script. The script is written in PHP and it's located in the folder "src/". In the directory "public/", I have moved the "controllers", "models", and "views" files. First step - The creation of the "index" controller: - This is where the sequence of the pages are created. - The sequence is as follows (you can add or modify it to suit your requirements): - Press "Forward" (the counter + the name of the comic is printed) - Press "Back" (the counter - the name of the comic is printed) - Press "Reset" (the counter is reset to 0 and the name of the comic is displayed) - Hold for 5 seconds (and the counter resets to 0). For the moment, the images are simply repeated (the counter is increased). This is because I don't have my original file, which is an important requirement. A few points: - The name of the comic is not displayed in a sub-text box, like in the previous version. I prefer to use the title of the page, since it is the same from one page to another. - While working on this script, I implemented a timer function (a pause between each image). I already know the script does not include a function like this, but I am exploring this way to incorporate it. I may take another approach later on. - The canvas is limited to a 600x600 pixels, and the compression factor is 75. This is a good compromise between the compression and the quality of the pages (for my purpose). - Regarding the script, I am mainly interested in the "forward" and "back" functions. If you take a look at the "index" controller, you will see an example of how I implement this function. Next steps - The creation of the "web"
