Thank you for subscribing See our privacy notice Invalid Email Video footage has emerged of a massive explosive device exploding in a city mall just hours after the deadly attack on Brussels last Tuesday. The explosion was first reported in the central Belgian city of Namur and the device is said to have detonated in a Belgian shopping mall. The situation is in a state of confusion as journalists gather in the mall, with no emergency services on site and it is unknown what exactly caused the explosion.

According to Metro, "Those who were nearby reported that they heard a bang. When they went outside, they found no fire, but there was a cloud of gas." A witness told the Belgian newspaper Het Laatste Nieuws: "When I was at the entrance to the mall, I heard a strong bang. "The windowpanes shook in the adjacent shops. But everyone was still calm." (Image: REUTERS)

Belgium's prosecutor's office said the investigation had been handed over to the national police, while Interior Minister Jan Jambon said there were no additional victims. However Het Laatste Nieuws, which initially said two people were injured, later reported that they were killed. The cause of the explosion was yet to be established. Since the Paris attacks in 2015, Brussels has been on high alert, with police bolstered and other precautions taken. Last week's atrocity saw 32 people killed and dozens more wounded when a suspected Isis bomb exploded on the platform of the Zaventem airport. (Image: REUTERS) More than 270 people were killed in the atrocities in Paris on November 13, 2015. Belgium is in the middle of a three-month-long EU-Turkey refugee summit that will go on into the fall, and Prime Minister Charles Michel is due to travel to Turkey on Sunday. Foreign Secretary Boris Johnson will meet with his Turkish counterpart Mevlut Cavusoglu in Ankara on Thursday as part of a trip to the region. In the past six months, the UK has seen a stream of terror attacks, including a bomb detonated by 22-year-old Khalid Masood that killed five people on Westminster Bridge in March. After picking up the pieces from a fatal drunk driving crash, the driver is charged with DUI resulting in death of another and operating a motor vehicle without a license. The driver fatally struck a pedestrian in the intersection of Crenshaw Boulevard and Main Street in Ladera Heights on Nov. 20. The victim had placed a leash for her dog at the curb on Main Street in front of a property owned by her family. She was walking eastbound when she was struck by an illegally parked Toyota and died of her injuries. While police were conducting a traffic accident investigation at the scene, officers came across a pair of glasses identified as having belonged to the victim on Main Street. The driver of the Toyota was identified by the victim's family and stopped when police approached. The driver had an invalid license and was taken into custody. As officers were leaving the scene, they located a wallet with the victim's driver's license in it. The victim's wallet was closed and the driver had placed it in the center console of the vehicle. The victim had no identification and no insurance card in her wallet. The driver was booked and transported to jail. A DMV search confirmed the name and address on the victim's license were valid. From there, it was determined that the driver had been charged previously with DUI in 2013 and had been required to attend an education program as a condition of probation. At the time of the victim's death, she had not been personally charged with an offense. With the DUI, there will now be a third arrest, said LAPD Cmdr. Andrew Smith. Saturday, September 6, 2008 Chesapeake Cycle Journal Article The Chesapeake Cycle Journal has a writeup on this year's Regen Tour and our event. Several of the riders are mentioned, and I was delighted to learn there that I was included in that list: Grant Osborne here. I'm quite pleased to learn I made the list, given all the changes and turnarounds in last year. While most of the highlights of the tour remain, I must admit that I had never been to a really big race, with thousands of cyclists and a great bunch of scenery. The level of racing in this event is lower than usual, which allows for a much more relaxing pace. The old classics are back in force, as is polka music,

All PC games are very much dependent on the specific set-up of the system you are using. But to play Chaos Code on Steam, it is recommended that you are running Windows 7 64 bit or later. We also recommend a decent amount of RAM, as well as graphics card that is 2GB or more. * Please note that Chaos Code may not work if you are running a Game or OS that has been patched or updated. Chaos Code is also compatible with the following: On Steam, it is recommended that you are using a NVIDIA GTX 650
